Everything I needed to Know I learned in the Art Room

Never say anything unkind about something a classmate has created. Don't hog all the colors. A picture is more interesting with contrast, movement and different points of view—so is life. Be kind to yourself if all your pictures don't turn out; it happens to all artists. Your most patient model is the one in the mirror. Learn from looking at yourself and be patient. Say it with paper pop-ups, folded books, or little painted pictures—making something for someone else can be a study aid. do it often. Keep an open mind about different kinds of art... something unforeseen may become part of your expression some day. Purple houses, pink streets - there's no right or wrong way to color your picture - honor your creative voice - it's what makes you unique. Take a rest or a break during a project - solutions become more clear, ideas can grow. Paint from the heart, it will show others will see it.
